How to Verify our Results

Industry Connect started in one of the most innovative countries, New Zealand in 2014. With the unique and successful model, it is now operating around the world.

Privacy

First of all, we protect our participants' privacy as much as protecting yours in the future. So we are not exposing their private contact information to the public as it is personal & private to them.

Imagine one day… you get the job offer, and we then give dozens of "strangers" your mobile number and email, what will happen?
■   You will receive lots of phone calls and emails. e.g. say suddenly 70 TEXT messages.
■   You would be unhappy with IC as we exposed your privacy.
■   You may not answer them as you don't really know any of them. And it is time consuming.

Hopefully it makes sense and you will appreciate it if it was you.

Six Methods to Verify Our Results

Here are the options, please use the combination of them for more perspectives. And it is not actually hard to verify them by using public information.

Method 1 - Check IC's historical Facebook posts (keep scrolling down to the past)
https://www.facebook.com/pg/industryconnect/posts/

*If a participant allows us, we usually make the public announcement there. Usually with 10 days delay, this is because we wait until our participants sort out the contract with their employers

Method 2 - We also publish some of their stories under our News menu on our website
https://www.industryconnect.org/news/

Method 3 - You can check the Linkedin Profile with the company and employee list.
Bear in mind, some people usually update their LinkedIn work details after the 3 months of employment, it means when they feel the contract is stable.

Method 4 - Some of them left a video interview with us. (Navigate through 16 pages)
https://www.industryconnect.org/videos/

Method 5 - Some of them left Facebook reviews for us. Click the link and select the most recent tab. https://www.facebook.com/pg/industryconnect/reviews

Method 6 - Pick one participant on the result list and we can organise a meeting for you and the person over the zoom. This 1-to-1 30mins consultation will have a fee of USD 150. (The reason we have to charge a fee is that we have to get our staff work off hours to contact them as they are at work during the day plus the time spent on organising the meeting.)

We have been around since 2013, have gained great reputation and results. From here, it is not hard to find out our model is very unique and successful. People say we are the industry-driven new education with a fail-proof model. Stay with us until successful and more power to you on page 2.

Do You Know?

In order for us to push the learning experience and results to a limit, we have invested hundreds of thousands into building our own software system. No other training we are aware of had done the same. We have developed both web based and mobile based apps to support Industry Connect initiative. Our model is very unique and sophisticated that no modern software can support it. That is why we decided to develop our own - only for our participants and you.

Do You Also Know?

Industry Connect is invented in one of the most innovative countries, New Zealand, and soon widely developed to Australia, Europe, Asia and the rest of the world. In the early days, we received a lot of recognition from the media and government department. Here are some of the government and media websites talking about Industry Connect

Immigration New Zealand Website

The seminars, held at the University of Auckland, AUT and the National Tertiary Education Consortium, were attended by around 800 International students from a full range of tertiary education providers. They were well received, with 95 percent of the students giving positive feedback.

The second component of Project Skills was a six-week Industry Connect Boot Camp for international students who had graduated with software development or testing qualifications. Twenty graduates took part in the camp, which set out to equip them with the technical and soft skills that would make them job-ready.

Education New Zealand Website

Each of the international graduates delivered a 60-second pitch to the room, followed by an informal networking session to talk further with employers about work opportunities.

The event was organised by ATEED (Auckland Tourism, Events & Economic Development).

The graduates are participating in a 12-week software development boot camp delivered by Industry Connect, an initiative that prepares graduates for the New Zealand IT market. Each student received a full scholarship, thanks to a joint funding agreement between ATEED, ENZ and Immigration New Zealand. Five graduates from the programme have already secured permanent jobs in the tech sector.

Do more study or pay to join a boot camp

Internships are a part of the courses offered through New Zealand's three recently-formed ICT Graduate Schools, which can help people move from education to employment. In 2017 the schools had 236 enrolments between them, although student numbers are expected to grow as the schools become more established.

If you want to pay, other options include Industry Connect which offers a number of programmes to help people into different jobs in the technology sector, or Dev Academy which offers boot camps for web developers.

Choose your course carefully

If you're still studying, make sure you know which skills are in high demand with employers and choose courses to match those requirements.

The Industry Connect programme is designed for exactly what you seek. Getting a job!

Membership of the Industry Connect introduces you to key companies and businesses involved in IT. Most applicants who complete the programme get noticed and employed eventually. It simply introduces the applicant to the employer and lays out the sound principles of employment in a rapidly developing IT industry. This is where you should be to get noticed.

Of course, you can still navigate your own way through the maze of employers and find yourself the employment you seek. That will be tougher as most employe... (more)

This is a 5-star and must-go place where give you not only all the skills you need for the real IT world but also give you the confidence to say yes to the technical demands of prospective companies. If you are a person who is graduated from university recently just like me, IC should be your first choice where you start your career. If you are struggling to get a job or do not know how to improve the interview skill, IC is the place you should come.
